

Dr. Stein selected as AAP president-elect

November 24, 2015

Alyson Sulaski Wyckoff , Associate Editor

Article type: News

Dr. Stein

Fernando Stein, M.D., FAAP, of Houston, has been elected AAP president-elect. He ran against Lynda M. Young, M.D., FAAP, of Worcester, Mass.

Dr. Stein follows Benard P. Dreyer, M.D., FAAP, of New York, who assumes the office of AAP president Jan. 1, 2016. Dr. Stein takes over as president on Jan. 1, 2017.

Voters also approved a referendum to the bylaws permitting chapters to send an alternate member to participate and vote in District Nominating Committee meetings when the chapter president or vice president is unable to do so.

Election results for other AAP national offices are as follows:

DISTRICT I

District Vice Chairperson

Wendy Davis, M.D., FAAP (re-elected)

National Nominating Committee

Sandra Carbonari, M.D., FAAP

DISTRICT III

District Chairperson

David I. Bromberg, M.D., FAAP (re-elected)

DISTRICT IV

National Nominating Committee

Michelle D. Fiscus, M.D., FAAP

DISTRICT VI

District Chairperson

Pamela K. Shaw, M.D., FAAP (re-elected)

District Vice Chairperson

Anne Edwards, M.D., FAAP

DISTRICT VII

National Nominating Committee

Oscar (Skip) W. Brown III, M.D., FAAP

DISTRICT IX

District Chairperson

Stuart A. Cohen, M.D., M.P.H., FAAP (re-elected)

Related articles

- AAP News profile of Dr. Stein
- AAP News 2015 voter's guide
- President-elect candidates discuss FAAP brand
- President-elect candidates discuss Academy support
- President-elect position statements

Copyright © 2015, The American Academy of Pediatrics